The City of Guelph says it has demonstrated its willingness to negotiate an agreement that includes fair wages and benefits for employees, reasonable rates for transit users and affordability for taxpayers. The city has presented a final offer to the union representing its transit workers after 22-days of bargaining. A provincially monitored vote has been requested by the city which will take place next month. Updates will be posted on the city's website as negotiations continue.

It could generate as much as 3 million dollars in commercial activity in the city, and bring in over 2 thousand visitors.

The University of Guelph has been informed that its competing with the city of Brampton, to host the 2016 Canada 55 Plus Games.

In August, a committee from the Guelph bid group will attend this year's game in Alberta, and make a formal presentation to the selection committee.

On August 30th, the winning bid will be announced.
